

A local match for a global business

Cork Griffiths has become a preferred supplier of the global consulting business 'Navigant'. The company has a rich portfolio of consulting services including management consulting, forensic accountancy and a plethora of services for business facing challenges or litigation issues. Globally the business has over 1,900 consultants with 4 city centre office locations here in the UK.

Rob Curran - Associate Director of Navigant Consulting (Europe)

"Paul is a personal network contact – proving that networking really does work! I had heard about Cork Griffiths before but then Paul was recommended to me and it was great to be able to pass them the business.

The whole experience was extremely positive. Paul understood our requirements and was able to get our request out to the market expediently. Even though the placement was a little outside the remit of the sorts of people they place, it did not faze them and they took our needs on board without hesitation.

The placement worked out excellently in every way – we are very pleased with Janet who we really would not have found through the traditional recruitment routes we were using.

Everything went very smoothly apart from the fact that Paul found us someone sooner than we expected so the whole process happened very quickly, which of course is a positive!

I wouldn't hesitate to recommend Cork Griffiths and we are already using them for another post."

Janet Oddie - Management Consultant

"I was put in touch with Navigant and the match was ideal. It was exactly the type of move I was looking for - interesting projects with a company with an excellent pedigree. From a candidate's perspective, the whole experience was ideal. Cork Griffiths had fantastic communication processes – I was very impressed with the team and in the end,

I felt I knew them personally! I was kept informed of issues all the way along. I even got a text from Paul wishing me luck for the interview when it happened, which was very much appreciated. I would recommend Cork Griffiths highly."
